PROFILE INSTRUCTIONS

SET OF PROFILES: This is a complete alphabetized listing of all the book suppliers qualified to serve RIF projects at the present time. If you have an old set of profiles or addenda, please discard them in order to avoid confusion.

PROFILE ADDENDA: Periodically, you will receive a profile addenda which supplements this set of profiles. The profile addenda includes the profiles of any newly qualified suppliers. It also includes changes in the existing profiles. We suggest you keep your profile addenda with the Set of Profiles until you receive a new complete set.

BOOK SELECTION COMMITTEE: Each book selection committee should have a copy of the most recent Set of Profiles plus any profile addenda. When this committee changes, please be sure its new leader has a complete Set of Profiles plus all addenda. Affiliate programs can receive extra Sets of Profiles and profile addenda by requesting them from our office.

NEW BOOK SUPPLIERS: Suppliers may begin seeking RIF business as soon as they are qualified. IF YOU ARE CONTACTED BY A SUPPLIER BEFORE YOU HAVE RECEIVED THEIR PROFILE, CHECK WITH OUR OFFICE TO BE SURE THE SUPPLIER IS QUALIFIED.

RIF BOOK SUPPLIERS: The suppliers become qualified to serve RIF on the basis of certain conditions. BY QUALIFYING SUPPLIERS, RIF DOES NOT ENDORSE THEIR SERVICE OR THEIR PRODUCTS. It is the responsibility of the local RIF book selection committee to choose books appropriate for the young people being served by the project from among the quantity and variety offered by the qualified book suppliers.

BOOK SUPPLIER CONTACT PERSON: The name, address and telephone number of each supplier is in the first column on the left. The name listed at the bottom of this column is the contact person who handles all business between RIF projects and the book supplier. All book orders, requests for catalogues and other inquiries should be written and mailed to the contact person. (We stress writing orders and inquiries so that there will be a record to refer to later.) In a few cases, there is a book order address that is different from the contact person's address but this will be stated in the "description/restriction" section.

PUBLISHERS AND DISTRIBUTORS: Also in the first column you can find out if a book supplier is a publisher or distributor. Publishers publish and also usually market their books. In general, publishers offer a higher discount on the books they market. This holds true especially for large orders of a single title.

Distributors buy books from many different publishers and market them. Distributors are well suited to fill orders for a wide variety of assorted titles. Their marketing advantage is based on "one stop" service where the books of many different publishers can be purchased through one order. However, distributors usually don't have enough warehouse space to keep in stock all the books of all the publishers they carry. As a result, they back-order — i.e. order the books from the publisher after they receive your order. Obviously back-ordering delays book shipments. On the other hand, if your area is served by a qualified local distributor you may be able to visit the warehouse and buy books directly which eliminates all shipping costs and time.

By utilizing a combination of distributors and publishers, you may be able to take advantage of what each offers and to some extent avoid their disadvantages.

WAREHOUSE: If the warehouse is separate from the book supplier's address, this information is provided in the second column. However, book orders should NEVER be sent to the warehouse unless a BOOK ORDER address is given in this space.

DISTRIBUTION: This describes the geographic area served by the book supplier. Most are national but many sell books in a few counties or states.

DISCOUNT: Books are usually listed in the catalogue at their retail price so that you must apply the discount listed here which may vary according to the number of books you are ordering. Some catalogues, however, have already subtracted the discount from the price offered to you (we use the term pre-discounted). Please read catalogues and order forms carefully before applying the discount.

EXPLANATION OF SERVICE CODES

01 Sends current catalogues as an ongoing service.
02 Sends current catalogues upon request.
03 Sends complimentary review copies as an ongoing service.
04 Sends complimentary review copies upon request.
05 Sends complimentary review copies upon request at supplier's discretion.
06 Provides sales visits upon request.
07 Pays shipping and mailing costs.
08 Offers storage.
09 Guarantees prices in current catalogues until new catalogues are mailed.
10 Gives advance notice if invoice exceeds amount on original order.
11 Provides a toll free telephone number.
12 Accepts collect calls in emergency situations only - i.e. late deliveries, incorrect shipments, incorrect or missing invoices - NOT for book orders or catalog requests.
13 See appendix.

01, 02, Sends current catalogues:

If you do not receive a catalogue, write to the contact person and request the number of catalogues you need. If you still do not receive any, tell your RIF Program Specialist. Frequently, all the books listed in the catalogue are not currently available. To avoid incomplete shipments, we suggest that you always include a list of acceptable substitutions with your order.

03, 04, & 05 Sends complimentary review copies:

Many publishers periodically send out review copies of books. If you are not receiving review copies as an on-going service from a supplier that has agreed to provide them, write a request to the book supplier's contact person. If you do not get a response in a reasonable length of time, let your Program Specialist know. Although you should specify your request in the age group and reading level served by your RIF project, don't be disappointed if you receive a pre-packaged assortment of books which are not all appropriate to your needs. Also, keep in mind that providing review copies is a courtesy, so please do not abuse the book supplier's generosity.

06 Provides sales visits:

Most of the major publishers and some of the distributors have a sales force which can be an excellent source of information. If you are interested in the services of a sales representative, request the name and address of the sales rep assigned to your area from the book supplier contact person. Then, contact the sales representative directly and ask for a visit.

In some instances, you may receive the attention of an over-zealous sales representative. Since their objective is to make a sale, you need to be careful in accepting their expertise. Make certain that the information they provide corresponds exactly to the book supplier profile and to all other RIF materials which you have.

07 Pay shipping:

When the code 07 appears, the supplier pays shipping. However, the supplier may not pay 100% of the shipping costs. Please read the discount column or the description column for the complete set of shipping directions. On the average, shipping costs 3-5% of the total cost of the shipment. If you receive an invoice charging shipping incorrectly, please contact the supplier directly, and request a corrected invoice.

08 Offers storage:

If you wish to order the books for more than one distribution at a time but you lack a place to store them, some suppliers have agreed to hold part of your total order until the date(s) when you need them. You will pay for each shipment upon receipt of the books.

09 Guarantees prices:

Publishing costs are subject to inflation like everything else. Even relatively new catalogues may list incorrect prices. Most book suppliers simply can not guarantee the prices in their catalogues - instead they provide advance notice. However, when placing orders to book suppliers who do guarantee prices, you can expect the total on the order, if correct, to match the invoice total.

10 Gives advance notice:

Book suppliers agreeing to give advance notice must let you know, before shipping and invoicing, if their total amount is more than the total you have figured. If there is a discrepancy, please contact the supplier's contact person to work out an agreeable solution. If the problem persists, let your Program Specialist know.

11 Toll free telephone number:

While suppliers who provide a toll free number do not restrict its use to emergency situations only (unless stated in the description/restriction section) telephone orders will NOT be accepted. The national office of RIF requires that all orders be placed in writing. This guarantees that you will have a copy of the order to compare with the invoice.

12 Accepts collect calls:

Again we remind you that collect calls should be placed in emergency situations - i.e. late deliveries, incorrect shipments, incorrect or missing invoices, etc. - NOT for book orders or catalog requests.

13 See appendix:

In cases where there is not enough room to explain the special services or restrictions in the description/restrictions section the code 13 will appear.

DESCRIPTION/RESTRICTIONS

In this section we let you know what extra services the book supplier provides such as shipping labels, order forms, a warehouse visitation policy, etc.

Perhaps most importantly, when the supplier offers only certain titles or certain lines of books, this information is listed in the description/restriction section.

We often receive calls from the projects asking for a publisher who sells a lot of books for young adults, or for pre-schoolers, or ethnic books of one sort of another. You can usually find this and other information here also.

To make the profiles a more useful marketing tool we gave the book suppliers an opportunity to write their own descriptions. Many, but not all, of them did so. Please keep that in mind if you find exaggerated claims.

SELECTING BOOK SUPPLIERS

Each project's needs are different. You will be happiest doing business with book suppliers you have carefully selected. We suggest that you seek book suppliers who:

a) offer books appropriate for the young people you serve

b) supply books at prices within your budget

c) give you quick, reliable service.

We have made an effort to provide all the RIF projects with a wide range and a great variety of book suppliers to choose from. Again, it is the role of the book selection committee to obtain books that satisfy the needs and standards of the community in which your RIF project operated.

If there is any book supplier from whom you wish to order books who is not qualified, let your Program Specialist know.
